Subject:
CALL FOR PAPER - 2019 CIFAEM
(International Conference on Critical Issues Facing Emerging Markets)

NDHU and Emerging Markets Finance and Trade Journal (SSCI) are co-hosting an international conference on critical accounting, finance and economics issues facing emerging markets on October 18-20, 2019. The main objective of this conference is to provide an international platform for stimulating discussions and explore the opportunities for cooperation among the academicians, practitioners, and government officials to make feasible contribution to the stability, sustainability and development of Asian emerging markets. With the background of speedy technological changes, rising trade barriers among major economies, pessimistic outlook of global economy, and the ascending volatility of global financial markets, emerging markets and economies are expected to experience critical challenges in the near future. To better understand and address these critical issues facing the Asian emerging markets, we invite research papers covering related issues in Finance, Economics, Management, and Accounting for consideration in the program.

Important dates:

- ♦ Submission deadline: July 15, 2019 (Abstract or full paper)
- ♦ Notification of acceptance: July 31, 2019
- ♦ Early bird registration: August 15, 2019
- ♦ Regular registration: September 15, 2019
- ♦ Conference dates: October 18-20, 2019
